Chairman's Statement

“We look forward to collaborate more with the regulators, industry participants and other professional associations to jointly promote the IR standards. Together, we can create higher values for the listed companies, and ultimately build more vibrant markets in the territory.”

I am glad to report that during the year under review, HKIRA has made remarkable achievements in strengthening our role as the platform in advocating the setting of international standards, advancing the best practices and serving the professional development needs for the investor relations (“IR”) profession. This year marked the sixth anniversary since the establishment of the Hong Kong Investor Relations Association (“HKIRA” or the “Association”) in 2008.

More diverse investor demands, stiff competition for investment fund, evolving regulatory landscape and new communication tools may change how an IRO operates. However, corporate governance is always at the centre for investor relations. Good corporate culture and ethics are essential in gaining the trust from investors. They do not only demand decent financial returns but also well-governed companies. Investors are more than willing to pay for higher valuation for good corporate governance companies. Best practice IR practitioners enable issuers to maintain high standards of corporate governance through timely and transparent communications with their stakeholders, adding value to the companies.

During the year under review, HKIRA has organized various events featuring information and discussion about the newest IR tools, latest practices of equity, debt and private equity markets, regulatory compliance and career trends. We are pleased to maintain close cooperation with the Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Limited (“HKEx”) as well as partners from other supporting organizations to co-host educational seminars and forum for our members. These events have enabled hundreds of IR practitioners, leading corporates and other industry professionals to be in close contact with the market, to listen to what the market requires and to learn the best practice in IR.

Through our exclusive bi-monthly luncheons, we have provided opportunities for our IRO members from different industry sectors to share and exchange their experience. The bi-monthly luncheons, on the other hand, have provided HKIRA valuable opportunities to listen to what our members need and receive their valuable feedback and comments for the Association. To stay connected with our stakeholders, HKIRA app is now downloadable from Apple App Store and Google Play so that users can keep updated of our latest events while members can gain access to our rich library of presentation materials any time, everywhere.

Demands at board level about good IR highlight the importance for better IR education. The Executive Certificate in Investor Relations that we partner with Hong Kong University School of Professional and Continuing Education (“HKU SPACE”) is a taught-program tailor-made for local parties who are interested in pursuing their career in the IR profession. We are glad to see an increasing number of students have received professional IR training through this program. Since 2012, HKIRA has also cooperated with the UK Investor Relations Society to provide the Certificate in Investor Relations (“CIR”) program, the only internationally recognized IR certificate program in Hong Kong. Likewise, we are pleased to see a growing enrollment in the CIR program and the number of certificate holders have increased over 50% last year.

As of the date of this statement, we are pleased to report that our membership number has grown rapidly to over 270. Most of which are IROs of listed companies with a growing number of supporting organizations as we gain further recognition and support from the markets. We expect the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect will have transformative impacts on the Hong Kong and mainland China stock markets, spurring demand for shareholder communications and demand for IROs as well. The increasing number of local and PRC-based companies listed on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange further adds demands for the IR profession. We will enhance HKIRA as the platform for IR professionals to share, learn and advance in the industry. We look forward to collaborate more with the regulators, industry participants and other professional associations to jointly promote the IR standards. Together, we can create higher values for the listed companies, and ultimately build more vibrant markets in the territory.

Finally, I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to our sponsors, guest speakers, volunteers and members who have contributed to the growth and success of HKIRA. I would also like to extend my gratitude to our Executive Committee members for their professional expertise and commitment that have been essential for HKIRA in achieving our goals this year.

Events

“HKIRA is delighted to have organized a wide array of events to help our members and other participants in navigating the regulatory, economic, investment and communications challenges.

We are motivated to organize more events in future, serving an even larger membership base and the industry community.”

Nowadays, investors are getting more sophisticated while their investment approaches are becoming more complex. On the regulatory front, new rules on disclosure and corporate governance for issuers are calling for higher demands for the IR profession. Meanwhile, the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect is expected to make transformative changes to the IR industry landscape as the fund flows of the Hong Kong stock market, investor mix and shareholder communications evolve.

HKIRA is delighted to have organized a wide array of events to help our members and other participants in navigating the regulatory, economic, investment and communications challenges. Over the past 12 months, we had an active events calendar with nineteen events in total (2012/13: eleven events). Among which, fifteen events were hosted by HKIRA and the other four were supporting events hosted by our partnering organizations. These educational seminars and workshops featuring updates on financial market and IR industry, IRO sharing sessions, IR career talk as well as bi-monthly luncheons exclusive for IRO members attracted more than 500 IR practitioners, corporates and other industry professionals in last year.

The inaugural symposium on investor relations that we co-hosted with HKEx last July brought together hundreds of participants to discuss the latest developments and implications for the IR industry in the region. In December 2013, we co-hosted with HKEx another IR forum themed “Conversation with the Sell Sides”. Seasoned IROs and industry professionals from global brokerage firms were invited to share with participants their experience and opinion on practical topics including “Working with the sell sides to strengthen your IR program”, “Essential preparation for a successful investor meeting” and considerations for roadshows.

We are excited to see the number of participants attending our events has significantly surged during the year. We would also express our gratitude to the experts who have been the speakers for our events in sharing their wealth of intelligence with us. We are motivated to organize more events in future, serving an even larger membership base and the industry community.

Highlights of Bi-Monthly Members Luncheon

Education

Education is of high priority in promoting IR excellence and professional competency for our members.

To tailor-make professional IR training for our local professionals, HKIRA has collaborated with HKU SPACE to provide training modules for the Executive Certificate in Investor Relations since June 2013. This taught-training program aims to provide students with the key concepts and practices in investor relations. It covers a range of practical tools, application and research to provide a solid foundation for IR. Topics include capital markets, corporate governance, regulations, corporate finance, communications and investor relations practices. Seasoned professionals in the industry will also be invited to share their expertise and practical experience with students. As of to date, 30 students have successfully completed the HKU SPACE Executive Certificate in Investor Relations Program.

We have also partnered with the UK Investor Relations Society to provide the Certificate in Investor Relations (“CIR”) Program for members and non-members who are interested in pursuing their career in the investor relations field in Hong Kong, mainland China or overseas. Currently, CIR is the only internationally recognized IR certificate program offered in Hong Kong. It is regarded as an essential prerequisite for those entering the IR profession. The aim of this qualification is to ensure an appropriate level of knowledge about regulatory compliance, financial and capital markets, which will enhance the professional competence, career development and industry recognition for the candidates. As of to date, 44 students have successfully passed the examination and have received the Certificate in Investor Relations through HKIRA.

We will continue to seek for cooperation opportunities with professional and academic institutions to provide IR training programs for the long-term career development of our members and all those who strive to advance in the IR industry.

Partnership and Promotion

The objectives of the Partnership and Promotion Committee are to seek and collaborate with institutions and organizations to support HKIRA on increasing the awareness of the Association among the IR profession, the investment community and the other stakeholders such as regulators. Our partners and supporting organizations align with HKIRA in promoting the best IR practice for the industry and the credibility of the IR profession through education and a wide spectrum of events.

On the partnership side, our joint Executive Certificate in Investor Relations Program with HKU SPACE and the Certificate in Investor Relations with the UK Investor Relations Society are great examples of our achievements in collaboration with educational institutions and professional organizations in advancing the IR profession to international standards.

On the promotion side, we have organized a wide suite of educational seminars, workshops, networking functions and lunch gatherings that have attracted hundreds of professionals and executive management from listed companies, the investment community as well as IR services providers. These activities do not only serve the professional development and networking needs of our members and the participants, but also present valuable opportunities in promoting the awareness of the Association. As a result, HKIRA has now become a well-known professional association for the IR industry in Hong Kong.

We have also greatly enhanced the awareness of the Association domestically and internationally through co-hosting and participating in events held by our partners and supporting organizations, such as Hong Kong Institute of Certified Public Accountants, China Real Estate Chamber of Commerce Hong Kong Chapter Limited (CRECCHK), National Investor Relations Institute and IR Magazine. Our executive committee members are also frequently invited to be speakers and guests of honors for industry events and seminars, to further promote the Association.

Our achievements would not be possible without the tremendous support and contribution from our annual sponsors — HSBC, irasia.com, EQS and NASDAQ OMX. We have the honor to invite them as speakers for various symposium and education seminars. HSBC has provided us access to their meeting facilities. Since our establishment in 2008, irasia.com has helped HKIRA to build and maintain our website as well as provide the necessary IT support for the Association. EQS, a leading online corporate communications provider, has also developed the online version of our annual report since 2012/13 and the mobile apps for the Association. NASDAQ OMX has arranged our members to visit the Nasdaq Stock Exchange in US last November. We are also grateful to other organizations and individuals who have devoted their resources and time to support HKIRA during the year. Please refer to the acknowledgement page for the full list of supporting organisations and individuals.
