Corporate and Institutional banking is the primary point of advisory contact on finance matters for large corporations, major financial institutions and public-sector organisations. It comprises a variety of specialised teams that focus on delivering the best client relationships: understanding and supporting clients over the long term, providing consistent execution and proactive relevant advice. Behind the glamour of the sector, what do corporate and institutional bankers actually do on a daily basis? What jobs are potentially available in this field in times of uncertainty like today?

In this webinar under the FSDC Practitioner Speakers Series, our distinguished speakers will share how they entered the corporate and institutional banking sector and advanced their careers, as well as how candidates could seize career opportunities in the field. So don't miss the chance!
